

8 Shifts in How We Think About Work, Growth & Leadership

From my conversation with Chale Dodge

Lead the Shift Conversations

Your Career Won't Always Follow the Plan.

Sometimes the opportunity that changes your direction is the one you never planned for.

Leadership is Service. Not Status

Leadership isn't about standing in front...

*...It's about standing beside others
and helping them move forward.*

Don't Wait for Someone to Show You the Way

Learn from your environment.

Take ownership of your own growth.

Good Work Isn't Enough. Make Your Value Visible.

Build relationships and make sure people understand the value you bring.

Your work matters. Make your impact known.

Experience Doesn't Automatically Become Growth.

Reflect on what worked, what didn't...

...and what you'll do differently next time.

Sometimes “No” Just Means “Not Yet.”

People may need more information, more trust or simply more time before they are ready to say yes.

Don't let the first “no” end the conversation.

Don't Compete With AI. Learn to Work With It.

Technology may change how we work...

*...but human judgement, context
and problem-solving still matter.*

You Don't Have to Figure It Out Alone.

Find your people. Ask questions.
Connect.

Someone else may already understand the problem you are facing.

Continue the Conversation

These are just a few of the powerful insights shared by Chale Dodge on the third episode of Lead the Shift Conversations.

Listen to the full episode on Spotify

Watch the full conversation on YouTube

Lead the Shift | Conversations

Follow, subscribe, and join a community of people who are learning to lead their shift, create impact, and make meaningful change.

Lead the Shift. Change the Conversation. Shape the Future.

LEAD THE
SHIFT